The reviews are in...

"...Brandston shares in an easy to understand manner his more than 50 years of experience. His book is completely accessible to students and professionals alike...Although Brandston's focus is on architectural lighting, it is easy to see how his approach is rooted in theatrical design principles."

Theatre Design & Technology, Summer 2010

"At 138 pages, it's a slim book, but its content is ambitious in its comprehensiveness, covering the science of art and the art of lighting. It is Brandston's gift to the design community, a playful but incisive distillation of more than 50 years of experience designing and teaching lighting."

Lightsearch.com, February 2009

"Howard Brandston's career achievements that span more than a half-century are a testimony to his preeminent leadership role in the lighting profession. The slim volume covers the art of lighting design as Brandston sees it in the context of light. He intermixes philosophy with the use of light in the built environment and its impact on human perception."
